Tun Maung I was an Adventist administrator, teacher, and minister from Myanmar.

Early Life, Education and Marriage

Tun Maung I was born on April 15, 1909, at Asai Sa Phyu Su, Ingapu, in the Hinthada District of the Ayeyarwaddy (formerly Irrawaddy) Region of Myanmar (formerly Burma). His parents were Po Lwin and Hla Thwe. He was the eldest among six siblings who included four brothers, Tun Sein, San Chi, Dallah, and Ah Po, and one sister, Nan Khin. Tun Maung was baptized in 1923.¹

Tun Maung passed the 10th standard at Meikhtila Adventist Technical High School and continued studying business courses, including shorthand, typing, and bookkeeping, for five months more. He married Hla Nwe in 1932. They had nine children: Henry Tun, Norma Tun, Danny Tun, Naw Hklar, Tennyson Tun, Jenny Tun, Benjamin Tun, Benton Tun, and Saw Htoo Htoo.²

Ministry

In March 1929, Tun Maung started his educational career at Karen Mission School in Kamamaung, Shwegon, by working in the office and teaching part-time. In 1934, he was sent to Yangon (formerly Rangoon) and served there for one year. He returned to Karen Mission School in 1935 to serve the school³ as a teacher. Again, he served only for a year as he was called to the Burma Union Mission office as an office employee where he worked for nineteen years from 1936 to 1955.⁴ His excellent work at the union mission led to an invitation to serve in the Ayeyarwaddy Mission, teaching in a seminary from 1955 to 1957.⁵ Then, he was sent to Hpa-an, Tanintharyi (formerly, Tenasserim) region for another teaching opportunity from 1957 to 1958.⁶

In addition to teaching, Tun Maung became a chaplain from 1958 to 1962 at the Yangon Seventh-day Adventist Hospital.⁷ In 1959, he was ordained to the gospel ministry.⁸ Following his ordination, he was promoted to the presidency of the Ayeyarwaddy (formerly Delta) Mission from 1963 to 1964,⁹ followed by the Tanintharyi (formerly Tenasserim) Region from 1964 to 1966,¹⁰ and the Central Myanmar Mission from 1967 to 1970.¹¹ His ability to speak three local dialects (Sgaw Karen, Pwo Karen, and Burmese) and one foreign language (English) fluently contributed to his success as a minister.

Later Life

Tun Maung served the Seventh-day Adventist Church for forty-two years. His ministry ranged from teaching and office work to Bible study,¹² chaplaincy, evangelism, and mission administration.¹³ He retired on April 1, 1971.¹⁴ He enjoyed retirement for four more years before his death on January 11, 1975, at Hpa-an, Karen.
